NOT A MIGHTY WIND

By Chuck Shepherd
Posted 8/20/14

University of Texas at Arlington researchers announced that they’d developed a prototype of a wind turbine that might deliver electricity in tiny bursts to devices like smartphones — since it’s about half the size of a grain of rice. (Tiny solar backpacks already exist.)