UTA scientists demonstrate that electrical stimulation of deep brain structures under the cortex could help ease chronic pain.